Overview: Manager's Experience

- 33 years of global investing covering all asset classes
 - 17 years as CEO at Traub Capital Management
 - 16 years at State Street Global Advisors (SSgA), the World's largest institutional asset manager
- Responsible at SSgA for over $50 billion, primarily in balanced funds
- Senior VP and Vice-chairman of SSgA's Investment Committee
- Strong contacts in investment community
- Track record of success

Overview: Fund Manager's Core Values

- Treat client's money as carefully as if it were our own money
- Value approach
- Minimize conflicts of interest, trading costs, fund expenses, and taxes:
 - No use of soft dollars
 - Firm receives no commissions or other fees beyond management fee
 - Utilize low-cost electronic trading
 - Favor low turnover stock trading or funds
 - Sell highest cost shares first
 - Minimize short-term capital gains
 - Place most income-oriented holdings to tax-exempt vehicles such as retirement funds and college savings plans

Overview: Financial Planning Guidance

- Can incorporate all investments into plan and reporting, including
 - Taxable assets
 - Tax-exempt assets (including advice and management of IRAs, UTMAs, Keoghs, Profit Sharing Plans, and College Savings Plans, and self-employed retirement plans)
- Input on employer plans (i.e., 401-Ks), options, restricted stock, deferred compensation plans, alternative investments, and other financial matters
- Advice on IRA vs. Roth IRA, college savings plans
- Social security claiming strategies
- Referrals to other financial and/or legal advisers, if applicable

Building Portfolios

- Review client needs, goals and tax situation
- Determine appropriate long-term asset allocation
- Review current holdings and market valuations/risks and adjust allocation
- Determine optimal set of funds and/or securities
- Allocate assets to appropriate accounts, i.e. taxable vs. non-taxable

Objectives

- Provide positive returns in most market environments
- Diversify portfolio to provide low to moderate risk
- In current environment and with moderate risk, typical long-term return goal is 5-7%*

*Although we believe this is an achievable goal there is always the potential for losses

Traub Capital Management, LLC

Strategy: Asset Class Selection

- Valuation: forward earnings yield vs. interest rates (“Fed Model”)
- Consider long-term growth of asset class
- Expected risk (implied volatility)
- Seasonality factors
- Real yields (yields above expected inflation)

Strategy: Fund Selection

- Analyze expense ratios, loads, and other fees
- Analyze fund's investment strategy and likelihood of success
- Review past and projected risk-adjusted returns (net of taxes) of funds in asset class
- Fund family culture: are shareholders placed first?
- Longer manager tenure is better
- Do fund managers have sizable investment in fund?
- Utilize lowest cost index funds unless there is an active fund that passes analysis above

Strategy: Stock Selection

- Analyze companies of any size or industry
- Core approach is discounted earnings and cash flow (value-oriented)
- Purchase shares that appear at least 25% undervalued and sell when modestly overvalued
- Favor stocks with insider purchases and/or share buybacks

Strategy: Buy Example

G-III Apparel Group (GIII)

- We bought G-III when it traded at 6x earnings and P/B of 0.5
- The CEO bought shares around $5 per share and we bought at prices ranging from $4 to $14
- Earnings consistently beat expectations leading to stock price moving into upper 20s
- Two years later we saw heavy insider selling in upper 20s, P/E moving up to low teens and P/B above 2, we began selling and sold majority of shares in low 30s.

Building Income-oriented Portfolios

For Taxable Money

- Utilize Low-cost Municipal Bond Funds as Core
- Include Treasury Bond Index Funds
- Diversify with small Allocations to High-yield Bond Funds
- If Utilizing Individual Securities, diversify further with High Yielding Closed-end Income Funds and Preferred Stocks

For Tax-exempt Assets (such as IRAs)

Determine ideal mix of:

- Bond Index Funds
- High-yield Bond Funds
- High-yield closed-end Bond Funds
- High Yield Preferred Stocks
- Merger arbitrage stocks

Summary of Advantages

- Expertise and record of manager in all aspects required to manage investment portfolio
- Focus is on maximizing after-tax returns relative to risk
- No commissions and minimal conflicts of interest
- Personalized and custom-tailored portfolios
- Full access to review account and discuss financial plans and investment strategy
